

The Process of Writing an Effective Paragraph

While writing a paragraph in a technical document, I use several techniques to make it effective. I check that each paragraph is focused on one topic from start to finish. Sentences may need to be re-ordered for a better flow of logic, and transition words may be necessary. The paragraph needs to be brief but informative enough for the reader to understand the precise scientific argument. These techniques help me and many scientific writers (CITATION REQUIRED) to write an effective paragraph.

Brevity and precision are especially important for the abstract ... (new paragraph)